●Course Aims This course aims to provide a basic knowledge of Japanese which will enable students to function effectively in everyday life.
●Course Prerequisites Prerequisite subjects for this course are Integrated Japanese 1 and Japanese Language Seminar (Communication) 1. Those who register for this course should also register for the Japanese Language Seminar (Communication) 2 in the same semester.
●Course Content ①Students will learn comprehensive Japanese, necessary to live both on and off campus. Each lesson will cover new grammar, expressions and vocabulary (including Hiragana, Katakana and Kanji). A short test will be given each lesson. ②Students are required to read textbooks (especially "Elementary Japanese 2 DAICHI Translation of the Main Text and Grammar Notes") as preparation for each lesson.
●Course Evaluation Methods Attendance 30%, Class Participation 30%, Mid-term Examination and Final examination 40%
●Notice for Students Students must maintain course attendance rates of 80% or higher and are required to take mid-term and final examination. Those who fail to meet these requirements will not earn credits. Students are not permitted to withdraw from this course for any reason after the registration. In general, in the case of absence, make-up tests and examinations will not be possible (except in the case of extenuating circumstances). Three late arrivals or early departures of 15 minutes or more will be regarded as a one-lesson absence.

●Aim of the Course This course aims to educate students in the social sciences and humanities about current social, economic and political issues facing Japan, as well as to foster critical inquiry, analysis and debate. Rather than a traditional lecture, this course will be a student-centered, academic simulation of the Japanese House of Representatives (lower house of the National Diet), or Model Diet. Each student participant will be expected to role-play as a legislator, according to an assigned party affiliation and background profile. Student responsibilities will include researching select domestic or foreign relations issues, working in pairs to prepare and present six brief position papers, engaging in debate over proposed bills, voting on bills, and finally, reporting to constituents.
●Course Prerequisites First Year Seminar A
●Course Content Week 1: Course Overview Week 2: History of the Japanese Diet Week 3: Japanese Legislative Politics Post-1993 Week 4: Student Presentations Week 5: Overview of domestic issues facing contemporary Japan Week 6: Drafting of Bills, Committee Review Week 7: Model Diet, Session 1: Introduction of bills, Position paper presentations, Debate, and Vote Week 8: Model Diet, Session 2: Introduction of bills, Position paper presentations, Debate, and Vote Week 9: Model Diet, Session 3: Introduction of bills, Position paper presentations, Debate, and Vote Week 10: Overview of international issues facing contemporary Japan Week 11: Drafting of Bills, Committee Review Week 12: Model Diet, Session 4: Introduction of bills, Position paper presentations, Debate, and Vote Week 13: Model Diet, Session 5: Introduction of bills, Position paper presentations, Debate, and Vote Week 14: Model Diet, Session 6: Introduction of bills, Position paper presentations, Debate, and Vote Week 15: Final Report Presentations
●Course Evaluation Methods The final grade for the course will be determined according to six categories of assessment, outlined in the paradigm below. Participation (30%) will be assessed according to contributions made during committee work (such as bill drafting) and Model Diet sessions (involvement in discussion and debate). As a member of an assigned committee, each student will be responsible for researching issues, drafting bills, presenting introductions of bills during sessions, and presenting position papers in support of bills introduced by his or her committee. Bills are brief (approximately 250-500 word) pieces of proposed legislation that students will co-author with members of assigned committees. Bill Introductions (20%--2@10% each) are brief (approximately 500-750 word) summaries of bills proposed by one's assigned committees. Position Papers (20%--2@10%) are brief (approximately 500-750 word) essays that present opinions about issues, and argue for or against proposed bills. The presentation (10%) is a brief (approximately seven-minute) presentation about the legislator that you will be role-playing over the course of the semester. The exam (5%) consists of twenty multiple-choice questions about the Japanese Diet and Postwar and Contemporary Japanese Politics. The Final Report (10%) is a brief (500-750 word) report, addressed to one's own constituency, which explains and defends bills that you have proposed and votes that you have cast over the course of the semester. The final reports will be presented on the final day of class.

●Notice for Students

- 1) I am committed to making this course a rewarding academic experience for you, and not simply another “required” course. Please feel free to approach me after class or during my scheduled office hours (TBA) if you have questions about the material, assigned projects, or other, related concerns. If you contact me by e-mail, please allow 24 hours for a reply.
- 2) In the interest of fostering a student-centered learning environment, various teaching methodologies will be employed in this class. While lecture is one component, there will also be small group discussions and Model Diet sessions, during which students will be expected to share knowledge, insights and opinions about specific issues. Active participation will be absolutely key to the learning process and to your success in this course.
- 3) Attendance and punctuality are critical to your success in this course. Please arrive to class on time, and prepared to engage in class discussions and other in-class exercises. Excessive absenteeism and tardiness will result in a reduction of your final grade. Students who miss more than four classes for any reason will receive a grade of “absent”.
- 4) Courtesy: In order to create a comfortable learning environment for all, students are expected to observe a few rules of common courtesy in class. Please do not hold private conversations with neighbors during class discussions or lectures. Please turn off mobile phones, portable video game players, and other electronic devices before entering the classroom. If you need to use a computer for note-taking, accessing online readings or viewing of presentations, please be discrete. Students found using computers inappropriately during class will be prohibited from using them for the remainder of the semester.
- 5) Academic Integrity: Students in this course are expected to abide by basic tenets of academic integrity. Cheating is particularly damaging to the learning process because it deprives a student of realizing his or her true potential, compromises the integrity of assessment, and puts honest students at an unfair disadvantage. Any students who have questions about what constitutes academic dishonesty or plagiarism are encouraged to convey them to me without judgment. Any student found guilty of cheating on quizzes or exams in this class, or plagiarism in written assignments, will receive a zero for the assignment in question. Particularly serious breaches of academic integrity may result in a failing grade for the entire course, or possibly even all courses taken in a semester.
- 6) Permission to Enroll in the Course: Students who would like to enroll in the course after the semester has begun should contact me no later than April 30th to express their interest. Permission will be granted to students who have attended at least one of the first three class meetings.
- 7) Notification of Course Withdrawal: Students who choose to withdraw from the course can receive an final grade of “absent” provided that they submit the required “Course Withdrawal Request Form” by no later than May 27th. Please note that failure to submit this form may result in a final grade of “F” for the course.

●Aim of the Course: The aim of this course is to deepen the understanding of calculus and to cultivate the ability to apply mathematical knowledge. The course is mainly intended for students taking Calculus II.
●Course Prerequisites: Some notions on functions of one variable, as seen in Calculus I. A basic knowledge of linear algebra will be an asset.
●Course Content: Exercises sheets will be provided each week before the tutorial, and will be available on the web site of the course. Homework will be due every week during the tutorial.
●Course Evaluation Methods: Your final grade will be determined by homework (40%) and quizzes (60%).
●Notice for Student: This course uses the course withdrawal system. It is necessary to submit a Course Withdrawal Request Form when the student has no intention of finishing the course during the semester. The grading scale will be S : 90-100, A : 80-89, B : 70-79, C : 60-69, F : 0-59.

●Aim of the Course The aim of this course is to provide essential mathematical knowledge necessary to further study mathematics and other sciences at university level. The course is intended for students taking Linear algebra II.
●Course Content See Linear Algebra II.
●Course Evaluation Methods There will be two main exams: midterm (40%) and final (40%), homework (10%) and twelve quizzes about problems given the lecture before (10%). The final grade will be determined by the total amount of points obtained according to the following scale: S: 90-100, A: 80-89, B: 70-79, C: 60-69, F:0-59. The assessment will be common with Linear Algebra II
●Notice for Students The Reference Book is available in the Main library and in the Science library (enough copies in total for all students). It is strongly recommended to register also to Linear algebra II. It is necessary to submit a request to withdraw during semester.

(Purpose and aim of this class) This class emphasizes the development of fundamental Association Football (Soccer) skills, knowledge of game rules and team tactics of play. The students are expected to deepen their understanding of this game and also to learn how to show good leadership to organize the team and how to maintain their own well-being status throughout this class.
(Related subject) The students' success in this class is extremely dependent on their ACTIVE participation and ON TIME attendance. The students are expected come to class ON TIME and READY to participate. The students missing more than FOUR classes for any reason (excused or unexcused) will fail the course. Any students who are disruptive, disrespectful, or not putting their effort into the class will also fail the course or have their attendance/participation grade reduced.
Dress Code and Equipment Comfortable sportswear and soccer shoes or athletic shoes MUST be worn. If the appropriate attire is not worn to this class, attendance will not be counted. As soccer frequently requires hitting the ball with the head, the use of glasses is prohibited. The students who do not have enough clear eyesight, the use of contact lens is strongly recommended.
Weather Condition The class will proceed even in rain using indoor facilities. Please find the notice for students announcing the place changed.
